

Guide for Laid Off Workers in Oregon

Connect. Explore. Create.

An individual who loses their job or has received notice that they will lose their job as part of a facility closure or layoff may be a “dislocated worker.”

Connect to Resources - Explore Opportunities - Create Your Path to Employment

Rapid Response Teams across Oregon are ready to help Oregon workers who have lost their job as part of a layoff or closure return to work as quickly as possible. Rapid Response Teams provide Rapid Response Information Sessions to help laid off workers navigate unemployment insurance, health care options WorkSource Oregon services, Trade Act, and Union affected employees. Programs and services can also include exploring options and finding opportunities to help find employment or connecting with job training and education options.

You can register for WorkSource services at Register Online at <http://bit.ly/WSOregistration>. Once registered, you will need to come into a WorkSource center location (page 16) for a conversation with staff as your next step. This is an important part of the process and must be done in person. WorkSource staff will want to know more about how they can best help you, offer options and assist in planning your next steps.

ATTITUDE

“The longer I live, the more I realize the impact of attitude on life. Attitude, to me, is more important than facts. It is more important than the past, than education, than money, than circumstances, than failures, than successes, than what other people think, say, or do. It is more important than appearance, giftedness, or skill. It will make or break a company...a church...a home. The remarkable thing is we have a choice every day regarding the attitude we will embrace for that day. We cannot change the past...we cannot change the fact that people will act in a certain way. We cannot change the inevitable. The only thing we can do is play on the one string we have, and that is our attitude...”

I am convinced that life is 10% what happens to me and 90% how I react to it. And so it is with you...we are in charge of our Attitudes.”

Charles Swindoll

Don't QUIT!

It is a perfectly natural reaction: Your boss gives you two weeks' notice and you are tempted to say, “I'm outta here!” Do not do it!

Quitting your job voluntarily when you are about to be laid off or terminated may have negative consequences such as:

1. You may lose your rights to claim unemployment insurance.
2. You may disqualify yourself from special services and training opportunities that are available to displaced workers.
3. You may lose the income you would have made by sticking it out.
4. You may hurt your chances at getting a new job, since a ticked-off boss is less likely to give you the kind of recommendation that leads to job offers.

Remember, it is much easier to land a job when you already have one — even if that job will not last much longer. So use your energy and make the best possible use of your notice period.

WorkSource centers have computers, phones, fax, printer and a copy machine for your job search needs. Computer labs also offer a professional setting to work on language and computer skills.

Worker Survey Additional Comments:

What is a Dislocated Worker?

WorkSource center staff can explain and help you access the many services and programs available to assist you in finding employment. As a dislocated worker, you may be eligible for many programs and services. The Dislocated Worker program is federally funded by the U.S. Department of Labor through the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act (WIOA), providing services for dislocated workers.

You may be a dislocated worker if you lost your job and one or more of these things are true about you:

- ✓ You have been terminated or laid off, or received a notice of termination or layoff, from employment, including separation notice from active military service;
- ✓ You are eligible for or have exhausted entitlement to unemployment compensation; or have been employed for a duration sufficient to demonstrate, to the appropriate entity at a WorkSource center, attachment to the workforce, but are not eligible for unemployment compensation due to insufficient earnings or having performed services for an employer that were not covered under Oregon's unemployment compensation law; and you are unlikely to return to a previous industry or occupation;
- ✓ You have been terminated or laid off, or have received a notice of termination or layoff, from employment as a result of any permanent closure of, or any substantial layoff at, a plant, facility, military installation or enterprise;
- ✓ You are employed at a facility at which the employer has made a general announcement that such facility will close within 180 days, or employed at a facility at which the employer has made a general announcement that such facility or military installation will close;
- ✓ You were self-employed (including employment as a farmer, a rancher, or a fisher) but are unemployed as a result of general economic conditions in the community in which you reside or because of natural disasters;
- ✓ You are a displaced homemaker;
- ✓ You are the spouse of a member of the Armed Forces on active duty and have experienced a loss of employment as a direct result of relocation to accommodate a permanent change in duty station of such member;
- ✓ You are the spouse of a member of the Armed Forces on active duty and who is unemployed or underemployed and is experiencing difficulty in obtaining or upgrading employment.

What is a WIOA Rapid Response Team?

A WIOA Rapid Response Team is a group of local partners designated by the Local Workforce Development Board to deliver information on available services to assist dislocated workers in getting back to work as quickly as possible following a layoff, closure, or disaster.

Rapid Response Teams provide Rapid Response Information Sessions when a layoff or closure is going to happen or has happened. The sessions help laid off workers navigate unemployment insurance, health care options, and WorkSource Oregon services - which can include exploring options and finding opportunities to help you find employment or connect with job training and education options.

Union represented workers may receive guidance and information specifically related to their employment status and collective bargaining agreement to help navigate next steps.

Dislocated Worker Services

Oregon Dislocated Worker Services begin with registering with WorkSource. You can register online Register Online at <http://bit.ly/WSOregistration>

Once registered online, you will need to come into a WorkSource center location for a conversation with staff on options that best fit your needs. This is a required part of the process and must be done in person. Staff will want to know more about how best to help you. Do you want to update your skills or connect with programs and services that can help you find a job? Be prepared to let us know how we can help.

WorkSource staff will assist dislocated workers with all available programs and services. For additional dislocated worker questions, please ask your local WorkSource staff or call 1-800-282-6514 to be directed to the best local resources to meet your needs.

Accessibility

WorkSource Oregon is an equal opportunity program and does not discriminate in employment or the provision of public services on the basis of race, color, religion, sex (including pregnancy, childbirth, or related medical conditions, gender identity, and transgender status), sexual orientation, national origin (including limited English proficiency), age, disability, political affiliation or belief, citizenship or marital status, or participation in any WIOA Title I— financially assisted program or activity. The following services are available free of cost, upon request: Auxiliary aids or services, alternate formats, such as Braille, large print, audio CD or tape, oral presentation, and electronic format to individuals with disabilities, and language assistance to individuals with limited English proficiency.

To register at WorkSource you will need to bring at least one of these documents that include your date of birth:

- Driver's License
- Baptismal Record
- Birth Certificate
- DD-214
- Report of Transfer or Discharge paper
- Federal, State or Local Identification Card
- Passport
- Hospital Record of Birth
- Public Assistance/Social Service Records
- School Records or ID cards
- Work Permit
- Tribal Records

If you are a veteran or their spouse, please bring a copy of your DD-214 and/or Report of Transfer or Discharge paper.

Please see page 16 for a list of Oregon's WorkSource centers.

Your WorkSource Oregon iMatchSkills® Profile must be completed as part of your WorkSource registration.

www.imatchskills.org

Your iMatchSkills® profile is an important part of connecting your skills to the skills employers are looking for and helping the job search experts at WorkSource centers explore all the resources available to you. We encourage you to spend some time and thought on your profile information. The more complete your iMatchSkills® profile is the better you can be matched to current job openings or you can explore the options to move you forward toward your next employment goal or career.

One thing you need to know about unemployment insurance (UI) is that it is an insurance policy — just like accident and health insurance. It is a benefit that eligible workers have access to, have the right to claim, and need not be embarrassed about receiving. As with most insurance, there is a coverage period and eligibility requirements.

In Oregon, Unemployment Insurance coverage is paid by our employers. Employers either pay a tax on their payroll or reimburse the fund. As an employee, you do not pay for this insurance.

You do not need to wait until you are unemployed to apply for UI benefits. A claim may be filed at any time, but benefits cannot be paid and your eligibility cannot be determined until you are unemployed or earn less than your weekly benefit amount while working part-time.

To receive the benefits, you need to meet certain qualifications. For full information, call the Unemployment Insurance Contact Center. They are the source for reliable information about your claim. Although you may know people who have a situation similar to yours, every claim is unique. So, rather than listen to the advice of others, please contact the source for specific and current information.

Get Prescription Help with MAT.org

MAT is free, confidential, and easy to use. MAT is a search engine that contains information on approximately 900 public and private assistance programs that help those with financial need get access to their prescriptions. Please note: They will never ask for payment information.

Budget Basics

Involve your family in the process; after all, the budget will affect them too. Ask them what they can give up to help the family through this time.

- Consider these when preparing your family budget:
  - ✓ Cash on hand
  - ✓ Monthly living expenses
  - ✓ Sources of income
  - ✓ Job search expenses
- Identify where your money is going.
- Prioritize your expenses, giving top priority to basic necessities such as mortgage or rent payment, utilities, property taxes, food, health care, transportation expenses, etc.
- Reduce or eliminate expenses for things you want but don't need (e.g., entertainment, new clothing, vacations, furniture, etc.).
- Seek out bargains (e.g., garage sales) for things you do need.
- Look for sources of bargain entertainment (e.g., many libraries lend films as well as books).
- Lock your credit cards away where you can't get at them easily.
- Don't take on any new debts unless necessary.

Health Insurance

Health Insurance after Job Loss. Dislocated workers who will be or have been laid off for their job have a few different options for health care coverage.

Health And Retirement Benefits After Job Loss

Plant and business closings, downsizings, and reductions in hours affect employees in numerous adverse ways. Workers lose income, the security of a steady job and, often, the health and retirement benefits that go along with working full time. Dislocated workers may have many questions, some of them concerning health and retirement benefits. For instance, Do I have access to my retirement funds? What happens to my health benefits? Can I continue health coverage until I get another job?

More about ... Work-Based Learning

Work-Based Learning includes On-the-Job Training (OJT), apprenticeship, and work experiences and internships that are linked to careers. Work-Based Learning services may also include job shadows, volunteer opportunities, and career exploration to help you develop skills, experience and/or exposure to careers or industries based on your interests and competencies.

- On-The-Job Training (OJT)

A hire-first program offered through WorkSource centers that result in training of a paid participant by an employer while engaged in work. The trainee is employed by the employer that provides the training. OJT is not subsidized employment. Payments are made to employers to compensate them for the costs associated with training participants and lower productivity of the participants during the training period.

- Apprenticeships

Apprenticeships combine supervised on-the-job training with classroom instruction. Individual apprenticeship committees take applications for their programs. You can find opening announcements posted at Oregon Bureau of Labor and Industries (BOLI) offices, local schools, and community colleges and at our WorkSource centers.

You can also access Apprenticeship Opportunities Statewide on the BOLI website.

http://www.oregon.gov/boli/ATD/Pages/A\_StatewideOpportunities.aspx

- Work Experience and Volunteering

Work Experience is any experience that a person gains while working in a specific field or occupation. Work experiences can be paid or on a volunteer basis.

- You may not have the experience that employers want and can gain additional experience doing a work experience.
- Work experience can allow you to sample career options and explore different jobs without actually committing to anything.
- You may have the transferrable skills to explore employment in a completely different industry. A work experience can give you a better view and experience before you job search.

Special Unemployment Programs – Oregon Employment Department

Trade Act

The Trade Adjustment Assistance (TAA) program is a federal entitlement program designed to help workers who have lost or may lose their jobs as a result of foreign trade. The TAA program offers benefits and services to eligible affected workers in an effort to help workers gain the skills, credentials, resources, and support necessary to become reemployed. The following services may be available based on the availability of federal funds and individual eligibility: Reemployment Services; Case Management Services; Job Search Allowances; Relocation Allowances; a wage subsidy for re-employed workers aged 50 or older; Health Coverage Tax Credit; additional Unemployment Insurance in the form of Trade Readjustment Allowances (TRA); and Training (Classroom, On-the-Job, or Apprenticeship). For more information contact the TAA Hotline at 503.947.3096 or Toll Free: 877.639.7700

<http://www.oregon.gov/Employ/Unemployment/Pages/Trade-Act.aspx>

Work Share

When times are tough, Work Share provides Oregon businesses an alternative to layoffs. This program allows employers to leverage unemployment insurance (UI) to subsidize a portion of lost wages for employers whose work time is reduced due to market downturns or other business stressors. With Work Share, instead of reducing staff, an employer reduces the hours of work for a group of workers. Partial Unemployment Insurance benefits are then paid to supplement workers' reduced wages.

For more information contact the Special Programs Center at 503.947.1800 or Toll Free 800.436.6191

Training Unemployment Insurance (TUI)

The TUI program allows eligible dislocated workers to attend school and receive Unemployment Insurance Benefits. The program does not pay for the training itself, but instead removes the work search requirements from weekly claims while the dislocated worker attends school full time. For more information contact the Special Programs Center at 503.947.1800 or Toll Free at 800.436.6191

Self-Employment Assistance (SEA)

Self-Employment Assistance offers dislocated workers the opportunity for early re-employment. The program is designed to encourage and enable unemployed workers to create their own jobs by starting their own small businesses. SEA program participants may attend SEA counseling/training and can engage in self-employment activities on a full-time basis. Participants must complete both a written business plan and a market feasibility study. The program operates as a collaborative effort between the Oregon Employment Department, and the Small Business Development Center Network (SBDC). For more information contact the Special Programs Center at 503.947.1800 or Toll Free 800.436.6191

Veterans Services – WorkSource Oregon & Oregon Employment Department

<https://www.oregon.gov/EMPLOY/jobseekers/Pages/Veterans.aspx>

If you served in the U.S. military or are a spouse of a veteran, you can qualify for Priority of Service. This includes priority referrals to jobs and other employment and training services over non-veteran applicants with the same qualifications. Services include job search assistance, workshops, resume assistance, labor market information, career counseling, and referrals among other resources.

All WorkSource Oregon staff serve as your Veteran Representatives for employment and training. WorkSource staff continuously collaborate with local, state, and federal agencies and other veteran service providers and organizations to assist you with career transitioning. Please identify yourself as a veteran or spouse of a veteran at your local WorkSource center upon seeking any services.

We are grateful for your service and our goal is to provide you with the maximum level of employment and training opportunities.

In addition to all WorkSource center staff being Veteran Representatives, the Oregon Employment Department operates additional programs throughout Oregon to assist veterans, eligible persons, and businesses to connect with one another.

Disabled Veterans' Outreach Program (DVOP):

DVOP specialists are professionally trained to provide exclusive services to meet the employment and training needs of special-disabled veterans, disabled veterans, veterans, and eligible persons. DVOP specialist are actively involved in outreach efforts to increase program awareness and participation among those with the greatest barriers to employment. DVOP specialists provide that customized one-on-one employment service that can include assessments, employment plans, career guidance, referral to supportive services (housing, trainings, connection to job openings, and more). Your WSO Veteran Representative will refer eligible job seekers to the DVOP for additional customized services.

Local Veterans' Employment Representative (LVER):

Professionally trained LVERs conduct outreach to the business community and engage in advocacy efforts with hiring executives to increase employment opportunities for veterans, encourage the hiring of disabled veterans, and generally assist veterans to gain and retain employment. LVERs seek out job developments for veterans and eligible persons using their established networks. LVERs conduct seminars for employers and job search workshops for veterans seeking employment, and facilitate priority of service in regard to employment, training, and placement services furnished to veterans by all staff of the WorkSource centers.

About GI Bill® benefits

GI Bill® benefits help you pay for college, graduate school, and training programs. # Adult Learners - Office of Student Access and Completion

Have you been out of school for a while and now are thinking it's time to look at options? They can help! Take a look at the resources the Office of Student Access and Completion have that can help you navigate the process of preparing and planning for college.

Higher Education Coordinating Commission

Adult Learner

<https://oregonstudentaid.gov/finaid-adult.aspx>

It's no surprise that the cost of a postsecondary education, whether it's a vocational, four-year, or graduate program, is steadily increasing and becoming a greater financial burden to Oregon adult learners and families. The Office of Student Access and Completion (OSAC) can help. Through grant programs, scholarships, precollege mentoring, and financial aid outreach programs, OSAC assists Oregonians in their pursuit of a college education and a brighter future.

Credit for Prior Learning

Credit for Prior Learning may be happening at your local college or university. Check out their website and search for "Credit for Prior Learning." If your local college or university is offering credit for prior learning, you should find information about:

- Who to contact for Credit for Prior Learning
- Available Credit for Prior Learning opportunities and preparation requirements
- Tuition and Fee Structure for Credit for Prior Learning
- Risks and cost of assessment where credit may not be awarded
- Information about financial aid
- Information regarding the applicability of Credit for Prior Learning towards certificate or degree programs

Dislocated Workers Applying for Financial Aid

When you apply for any financial aid program:

- Contact the financial aid office at your school.
- Be sure to let them know that you are a dislocated worker.
- Go to studentaid.gov to apply online.

Most grants, but not all, are available to you depending upon your financial need, so bring along your most recent tax paperwork.

When you apply for any financial aid program, keep in mind that the process usually takes one to two weeks for determination. You can access most forms on the internet, so ask your financial aid office for assistance.

If your application is turned down because it was based on past income, be sure to request to meet with the campus financial aid officer, as he or she may be able to use a "professional judgment" ruling to reconsider your application. This rule allows the officer to consider your projected income, rather than your previous income, to determine your need for the grant.

What is a Pell Grant?

FEDERAL STUDENT AID FOR ADULT STUDENTS

Are you an adult considering college? Do you need help paying your education expenses?
Apply for federal student aid!

- A Federal Pell Grant, unlike a loan, does not have to be repaid.
- The amount depends on your financial need, costs to attend school, status as a full-time or part-time student, and plans to attend school for a full academic year or less.
- Learn more about Pell grants. <https://studentaid.ed.gov/sa/types/grants-scholarships/pell>

Job Search Checklists

Start planning your job search now, even if your job has not ended yet. Many employers will support some type of job search activity before a layoff. Once you are no longer working, it is important to give your job search the same priority and commitment you would a job. You should maintain a routine, setting goals and timelines for yourself. Start preparing your resume, notify friends and colleagues that you are available, and ask your supervisor for a letter of recommendation.

It's normal to feel hurt, vulnerable, or angry after losing a job. The good news is that despite the stress of job loss and unemployment there are many things you can do to take control of the situation and maintain your spirits. You can get through this tough time by taking care of yourself, reaching out to others, and taking the opportunity to rethink your career goals and rediscover what truly makes you happy.

Losing a job is stressful

Our jobs are much more than just the way we make a living. They influence how we see ourselves, as well as the way others see us. Our jobs give us structure, purpose, and meaning. That's why job loss and unemployment is one of the most stressful things you can experience. Beyond the loss of income, losing a job also comes with other major losses, some of which may be even more difficult to face:

- Loss of your professional identity
- Loss of self-esteem and self-confidence
- Loss of your daily routine
- Loss of purposeful activity
- Loss of your work-based social network
- Loss of your sense of security

Grief is normal after losing a job

Grief is a natural response to loss, <https://www.helpguide.org/articles/grief/coping-with-grief-and-loss.htm> and that includes the loss of a job. Losing your job forces you to make rapid changes. You may feel angry, hurt, panicked, rejected, and scared. What you need to know is that these emotions are normal. You have every right to be upset, so accept your feelings and go easy on yourself. Also remember that many, if not most, successful people have experienced major failures in their careers. But they've turned those failures around by picking themselves up, learning from the experience, and trying again. When bad things happen to you—like experiencing unemployment—you can grow stronger and more resilient in the process of overcoming them.

Coping with job loss and unemployment stress tip 1: Face your feelings

Fear, depression, and anxiety will make it harder to get back on the job market, so it's important to actively deal with your feelings and find healthy ways to grieve. Acknowledging your feelings and challenging your negative thoughts will help you deal with the loss and move on.

Surviving the emotional roller coaster of unemployment and job loss

Write about your feelings. Express everything you feel about being laid off or unemployed, including things you wish you had said (or hadn't said) to your former boss. This is especially cathartic if your layoff or termination was handled in an insensitive way.

- Accept reality. While it's important to acknowledge how difficult job loss and unemployment can be, it's equally important to avoid wallowing. Rather than dwelling on your job loss—how unfair it is; how poorly it was handled; things you could have done to prevent it; how much better life would be if it hadn't happened—try to accept the situation. The sooner you do, the sooner you can get on with the next phase in your life.
- Don't beat yourself up. It's easy to start criticizing or blaming yourself when you've lost your job and are unemployed. But it's important to avoid putting yourself down. You'll need your self-confidence intact as you're looking for a new job. Challenge every negative thought that goes through your head. If you start to think, "I'm a loser," write down evidence to the contrary ("I lost my job because of the recession, not because I was bad at my job.").
- Look for the silver lining. Losing a job is easier to accept if you can find the lesson in your loss. What can you learn from the experience? Maybe your job loss and unemployment has given you a chance to reflect on what you want out of life and rethink your career priorities. Maybe it's made you stronger. If you look, you're sure to find something of value.

Beware of Pitfalls

- Taking refuge in your "cave" may provide temporary comfort, but is little help if your time spent there is not constructive. Surrounding yourself with positive, supportive family and friends may better help your self-esteem.
- Venting your anger and frustrations may only make you feel worse if you find yourself in the middle of a "pity party." There are people who actually enjoy misery and the misfortune of others.
- Drinking is at best a temporary relief, and for some people, can lead to a crippling addiction.

Coping with job loss and unemployment stress tip 2: Reach out

Don't underestimate the importance of other people when you're faced with job loss and unemployment. Be proactive. Let people know that you lost your job and are looking for work.

Taking action will help you feel more in control of your situation—and you never know what opportunities will arise. Plus, the outpouring of support you receive may pleasantly surprise you. Simple words of sympathy and encouragement can be a huge boost in this difficult time.

Turn to people you trust for support

Share what you're going through with the people you love and trust. Ask for the support you need. Don't try to shoulder the stress of job loss and unemployment alone. Your natural reaction may be to withdraw out of embarrassment and shame or to resist asking for help out of pride. But avoid the tendency to isolate. You will only feel worse.

Join or start a job club

Other job seekers can be invaluable sources of encouragement, support, and job leads. You can tap into this resource by joining or starting a job club. Being around other job seekers can be energizing and motivating, and help keep you on track during your job search.

To find a job club in your area, check out:

- Your local public library
- College and university career centers
- Professional networking sites
- The classifieds or career section of the newspaper
- Resources & References section below for links

Stay connected through networking

The vast majority of job openings are never advertised; they're filled by word of mouth. That's why networking is the best way to find a job. Unfortunately, many job seekers are hesitant to take advantage of networking because they're afraid of being seen as pushy, annoying, or self-serving. But networking isn't about using other people or aggressively promoting yourself—it's about building relationships. As you look for a new job, these relationships can provide much-needed feedback, advice, and support.

Networking is much easier than you think

Networking may sound intimidating or difficult—especially when it comes to finding a job or asking for help—but it doesn't have to be. Networking can be rewarding and fun, even if you're shy or you feel like you don't know many people. Read: Job Networking Tips <https://www.helpguide.org/articles/relationships-communication/job-networking-tips.htm>

Coping with job loss and unemployment stress tip 3: Involve your family

Unemployment affects the whole family, so keep the lines of communication open. Tell your family what's going on and involve them in major decisions. Keeping your job loss or your unemployment a secret will only make the situation worse. Working together as a family will help you survive and thrive, even in this difficult time.

- Keep your family in the loop. Tell them about your job search plans, let them know how you're spending your time, update them on promising developments, and let them know how they can support you while you're unemployed.
- Listen to their concerns. Your family members are worried about you, as well as their own stability and future. Give them a chance to talk about their concerns and offer suggestions regarding your job loss and unemployment.
- Make time for family fun. Set aside regular family fun time where you can enjoy each other's company, let off steam, and forget about your job loss and unemployment troubles. This will help the whole family stay positive.

Helping Children Cope with a Parent's Unemployment

Children may be deeply affected by a parent's unemployment. It is important for them to know what has happened and how it will affect the family. However, try not to overburden them with the responsibility of too many of the emotional or financial details.

- Keep an open dialogue with your children. Letting them know what is really going on is vital. Children have a way of imagining the worst when they write their own "scripts," so the facts can actually be far less devastating than what they envision.
- Make sure your children know it's not anybody's fault. Children may not understand about job loss and immediately think that you did something wrong to cause it. Or, they may feel that somehow they are responsible or financially burdensome. They need reassurance in these matters, regardless of their age.
- Children need to feel they are helping. They want to help and having them do something like taking a cut in allowance, deferring expensive purchases, or getting an after-school job can make them feel as if they are part of the team.

Coping with job loss and unemployment stress tip 4: Take care of yourself

Learn to recognize & reduce hidden stress

The stress of job loss and unemployment can take a toll on your health. Now more than ever, it's important to take care of yourself. That means looking after your emotional and physical needs and making stress management a priority.

Tips for managing unemployment stress:

- Maintain balance in your life. Don't let your job search consume you. Make time for fun, rest, and relaxation—whatever revitalizes you. Your job search will be more effective if you are mentally, emotionally, and physically at your best.
- Make time for regular exercise. Exercise can be a great outlet for stress and worry while you're unemployed and looking for work. It is also a powerful mood and energy booster. Aim for at least 30 minutes of exercise on most days of the week.
- Get plenty of sleep. Sleep has a huge influence on your mood and productivity. Make sure you're getting between 7 to 8 hours of sleep every night. It will help you keep your stress levels under control and maintain your focus throughout your job search.

- Practice relaxation techniques. Relaxation techniques such as deep breathing, meditation, and yoga are a powerful antidote to stress. They also boost your feelings of serenity and joy and teach you how to stay calm and collected in challenging situations—including job loss and unemployment.

Staying positive during a long job search

A long job search can wear on your attitude and outlook, especially if you're unemployed. If it's taking you longer than anticipated to find work, the following tips can help you stay focused and upbeat.

- Keep a regular daily routine. When you no longer have a job to report to every day, you can easily lose motivation. Treat your job search like a regular job, with a daily "start" and "end" time. Following a set schedule will help you be more efficient and productive while you're unemployed.
- Create a job search plan. Avoid getting overwhelmed by breaking big goals into small, manageable steps. Instead of trying to do everything at once, set priorities. If you're not having luck in your job search, take some time to rethink your goals.
- List your positives. Make a list of all the things you like about yourself, including skills, personality traits, accomplishments, and successes. Write down projects you're proud of, situations where you excelled, and things you're good at. Revisit this list often to remind yourself of your strengths.
- Volunteer. Unemployment can wear on your self-esteem and make you feel useless. Volunteering helps you maintain a sense of value and purpose. And helping others is an instantaneous mood booster. Volunteering can also provide career experience, social support, and networking opportunities.
- Focus on the things you can control. You can't control how quickly a potential employer calls you back or whether or not they decide to hire you. Rather than wasting your precious energy on things that are out of your hands, turn your attention to things you can control during your unemployment, such as writing a great cover letter and resume tailored to the company you want to work for and setting up meetings with your networking contacts.
